

The Orwellian Vaccine Passport Agenda Relies On The Lie Of The “Social Contract”

September 2, 2021 45 Comments

By Brandon Smith

There is a fundamental question that needs to be asked when examining the vaccine passport issue, and what I find is that almost no one in the mainstream is tackling it directly. The question is this:

Is it legally and morally acceptable to constrict the rights and economic access of people in order to force them to submit to an experimental “vaccine”, or any other medical procedure for that matter?

Furthermore, who gets to decide what medical procedures are acceptable to enforce? Who gets to be the all powerful and benevolent overseer of every human being’s health path. I ask this because I don’t think many people realize the future repercussions of allowing governments or corporations (the same thing these days) to dictate covid vaccinations. It doesn’t stop there; in fact, we have no idea where this stops once the Pandora’s box is opened.

For example, the primary argument of the covid cult and the establishment in favor of vaccine passports is the “social contract” fantasy. They claim that because we “live in a society”, everything we do affects everyone else in some way, and because we are all interconnected in our “collective” we are thus beholden to the collective. In other words, the collective has the “right” to micro-manage the life of the individual because if the individual is allowed to make his/her own decisions they might potentially cause harm to the whole group.

In case you are not familiar with this philosophy it is an extension of socialism and cultural Marxism, and it stands at the very core of vaccine passport propaganda. I have actually had public debates with pro-socialist people in the past who have tried to defend the merits of socialism and every single time the argument comes down to one singular disconnect – I say that if a group of people want to go off and start their own little socialist community they have every right to...as long as it is VOLUNTARY. Then if it fails and collapses it doesn't matter because it doesn't affect me or anyone else who did not want to participate.

The problem is that these Socialists/communists/Marxists/collectivists simply do not grasp the notion of voluntarism. They believe that people need to be forced into doing the right thing or helping others, and they are the people that get to decide what the right thing is and who gets the help. They are the people that get to decide what freedoms are acceptable and what freedoms are inconvenient to their agenda. When they say "We live in a society...", what they really mean is "You live in OUR society, and WE will determine what is best for you."

When I argue that a socialist community should be voluntary, they inevitably argue that people will not commit to such a system voluntarily so they must be forced to do what is best for the "greater good".

In terms of vaccine passports, the collectivist social contract is a key element. They claim that being unvaxxed is not a personal freedom because the unvaxxed are a risk to the lives of everyone else. The social contract is therefore violated because by making a personal life choice you are endangering the rights of others.

It's interesting though how the covid cult is made up of people that do not apply the same logic to other health issues like abortion. I mean, there is zero substantiated evidence to support the claim that unvaccinated people are any more of a threat to the lives of others than vaccinated people are, and we will get into that in just a moment. But, when we talk about an abortion, we are talking about a personal medical decision that leads to the direct and observable death of another innocent human being with his/her own rights. Abortions end the lives of over 800,000 unborn people per year in the US, far more than covid supposedly does.

"My body my choice" apparently only applies to killing babies, but not to people who do not want to become guinea pigs for a mRNA cocktail with no long term testing to prove its safety.

Imagine though if we reversed the scenario and applied the broad social contract argument to something like children and population? A collectivist/leftist member of the global warming cult could also argue that abortion should be legally mandated, because having a child or "too many children" increases carbon emissions and this puts society "at risk" even further (again, with no proof to support the claim). By allowing the social contract narrative to go unchecked, we open the door to horrific new oppressive measures and a complete erasure of our autonomy.

I think it's safe to say that the "social contract" ideology is highly selective and hypocritical. The covid cult does not care about saving lives, they only care about their ideological narrative and the power to make people submit to it. But let's dig even further into the reasoning behind the social contract claim. Who is actually dying because of unvaccinated individuals, which according to state vax statistics make up around 50% of the US population?

The average Infection Fatality Rate (IFR) of covid is a mere 0.26% according to dozens of studies and the government's own numbers. Meaning, unvaxxed people are not even a remote threat to 99.7% of the population. Around 40% of all covid deaths are made up of people in nursing homes with preexisting conditions, which means that we do not know if they actually died of covid or due to the health problems they were already suffering from. The pool of people who might be affected by the unvaxxed grows smaller and smaller...

And what about the ridiculous contradiction that arises when we talk about the mandate narrative verses the passport narrative? If masks and vaccines actually work, then how is an unvaxxed or unmasked person a threat to a vaxxed person? If the vaccines and masks don't work, then why use them at all, and why demand forced vaccinations through passport measures?

Mainstream propaganda asserts that the unvaxxed will somehow become petri dishes for new mutations that will harm vaccinated people. There is no evidence to support this claim. In fact, there is more evidence that suggests it is vaccinated people that will trigger mutations and variants. The media says that this is not cause for any concern, but if it's not then neither should we be concerned about mutations that gestate in the unvaxxed population, if there are any.

The fact of the matter is that more and more scientific evidence is proving that the experimental vaccines are NOT effective and that the unvaxxed are actually safer from covid regardless of the variant or mutation.

The true infection numbers within the US are impossible to know because up to 59% of people that catch covid and spread it are asymptomatic according to the CDC. They never know that they have it so they are unlikely to test for it. That said, it is clear that many millions of Americans have dealt with the virus and now have a natural immunity to it (I happen to be one of them). Establishment elitists like Anthony Fauci refuse to acknowledge natural immunity as a factor, and they say that ONLY people who are vaccinated are qualified to receive a passport. Why?

Multiple studies are being released from countries with high vaccination rates like Israel that completely contradict Fauci's narrative on natural immunity. Israel has a vax rate of around 63% according to government stats, but scientific evidence they have released shows that vaccinated people are 13-27 times more likely to contract covid and 8 times more likely to be hospitalized when compared with people who have natural immunity. It almost appears as if the mRNA vaccines make people MORE susceptible to the virus rather than less susceptible.

Recent data released from the state of Massachusetts supports this concern. In the month of July, MA reported at least 5100 covid infections, all people who were fully vaccinated. Over 80 of them died, which is a much higher death rate than among the unvaccinated. In my county of 20,000 people, which has a low vaccination rate and no mask mandates, there were only 17 total covid deaths in the first year year of the pandemic.

This begs the question: Why take the mRNA cocktail at all? What is there to gain? Well, there is nothing to gain in terms of health safety. Even if you happen to be part of the 0.26% of people at risk from covid, you are better off in the long run taking your chances with natural immunity than getting the jab.

The answer to the question is not about health, but about denial of access. Government's and their corporate partners are trying to make it so you MUST take the vaccine in order to participate in normal social activities, or even to keep a job. Not only that, but the process goes on forever because every year there will be new variants and new booster shots. The only reason to take the vaccine is to keep at least a handful of your freedoms and to avoid poverty and starvation.

Here is where we must go back to the original query presented at the beginning of this article:

Is it legally and morally acceptable to constrict the rights and economic access of people in order to force them to submit to an experimental "vaccine"?

The covid cult will say that private business rights trump individual rights so companies should be allowed to discriminate against employees based on their vaccination status. But then again, what we are facing in most cases are NOT private businesses but conglomerates that are funded by government bailouts and that are colluding directing with governments to enforce the passport agenda. So I would have to say no, these businesses do not have a legal right to feed on public tax dollars and then claim they are private entities that have the freedom to invade the medical privacy of employees and customers.

And since when do collectivists actually care about private business rights, anyway? More hypocrisy...

If we are talking about small and medium business with no government stimulus then the issue gets more tricky. In many states and other countries the businesses are only enforcing passports because if they don't they will be punished by the government. In this case the private business rights argument goes out the window. The covid cult respects business independence only when it suits them.

Frankly, it is small businesses that are being hurt the most by the covid mandates and the extra costs involved just in enforcing the passports in their own establishments is going to bury them. Any small business owner that voluntarily supports the passport rules must have a financial death wish.

In terms of government, the covid cult will claim that there are Supreme Court precedents for legal enforcement of vaccinations. Honestly, I don't care, and neither do millions of other Americans. A bunch of high priests in black robes do not get to dictate my independent health decisions; I make those decisions and there's nothing that they can do about it. This is where we have to come to terms with the morals and principles involved – The lives of others are in no way affected by my decision to refuse to comply with vaccine passports. And just because a group of people have irrational fears about the threat of covid does not mean people with more discernment about the facts should be required to make them "feel better" or feel safer.

The bottom line is this: Our freedoms are more important than your paranoid fears, and we will not comply. We do not subscribe to your false social contract, and you are in no position to dictate the terms of our "society". Don't like it? You are more than welcome to leave the country and start a vaccinated Utopia somewhere else. We'll see how that works out for you in the long run.

Many good points here. Regarding the small businesses who follow the mask mandate – as of now that's all it is – must be under some threat of fine from the state and/or fed. It's only the large corporations who survive on gov't bailouts can afford the loss of business from the minority who will say "I'll take my money elsewhere." It's a weak statement at best when you consider the majority is fully on board with masking – or rather willing to do anything to maintain the ability to walk into stores, etc...

So what is the catch 22? Small business X ignores the mandates and simply allows people to shop as pre covid until they are busted and fined out of existence? This of course only allows Amazon and similar to further consolidate the wealth.

Big business Y shuts out the people who will "take their money elsewhere" knowing full well that a minority won't make a hill of beans difference in their bottom line. The end result is the anti vax crowd will simply turn to on line shopping in retaliation while yelling "serves you right" to the Main Street stores as some get gobbled up by the fascist organizations. Recalling the on going propaganda that says how Amazon is destroying main street when in fact it's people's laziness and desire for convenience that is destroying Main Street and put Amazon on the map.

The joke is on us. Those who take their money elsewhere are voluntarily walking into their 5G stack and pack prison cells that are in a round about way subsidized by the gov't while citing victory over the big guys. Those who refuse to comply will have a very tough time ahead, which is aligned with Christian teaching. People are controlled by the threat of being fined into poverty.

The problem with your theory is there is no "majority" of people in compliance with the mask mandates, at least not in the US. People who live in major cities in blue states or blue counties seem to live in a bubble and assume the compliance in their area is somehow reflective of the whole country. In reality if you travel 50 miles outside any of these places you will discover that the majority of people IGNORE the mandates and have been for many months now. Americans in particular are not controlled by the threat of fines or poverty, they are controlled by false perceptions of manufactured consent and the threat of state violence, and even then, many millions of them still will not comply. They can't fine you or send you into poverty when you know a war is coming anyway and you refuse to pay.

Replyron martinSeptember 3, 2021 At 6:27 Am*

"They" are slowly but assuredly boiling the frog and killing us by 1000 paper cuts. The vaxx & doctor/hospital zombie protocol (remdisivir + ventilator + induced coma =death) is reducing our numbers daily. "They" will never relax or stop their relentless attacks on us. Every single influencer on our side espouses non-violence yet never has a single empire survived without violence and bloodshed. The "club" has all the assets and I expect our empire to succumb to the same results seen from the 6000 years of recorded history.

ReplyBrandon SmithSeptember 3, 2021 At 7:12 Am*

They aren't reducing our numbers because conservatives are smart enough not to take the jab. The difference this time is that we know exactly who they are and what organizations they operate. They are terrified now that 50% of the country has refused to comply with the covid agenda, which is why they are becoming increasingly unhinged and aggressive in their propaganda. They know that this is it – if they don't succeed in the US and quickly with their "reset", we will be coming after them and they will be wiped from the face of the Earth. From this point on, time is working against them.

I agree. They are in a bind. If they don't move fast, even more people will realize they can live their life how they want and will start ignoring what the government asks them to do. If they do move fast, they will look like tyrants and the majority of people won't support them. Hopefully, their September 11th false flag threats come to naught or (given their disposition) at least people recognize it for what it is. We just have to keep holding on and keeping the moral high ground as people join us while preparing to do what may need to be done later on. Thanks for your blog. I have been calm throughout this whole crisis.

Since I wrote my post above a good friend of mine came down with covid. He's in southern OR and was generally in good shape. While I can't know specifically if he had any issues; I do know he wasn't a smoker or drinker. He wasn't a health food nut and from what I saw drank way too much soda if that plays any roll with weakening the immune system.

His wife had covid first but she is coming out of it by drinking a gallon of water a day and the usual home high fever treatments. She was very sick for 21 days but doing much better. And she's asthmatic to boot! Her husband was fine when I spoke to him two weeks ago and now on O2, medication and as of yesterday a ventilator at HIS request. Without the O2 bottle his oxygen is 60%. The condition points to silent hypoxia, which as I understand it, hits about 20% of people who get diagnosed with covid.

They live out in the country surrounded by marijuana grow ops both legal and illegal. The epidemic in their area is the grow ops! I've been there several times over the years and I can smell it inside my truck with the windows up just driving down the road. Wonder if this has any effect?

Mike did not take the jab and was not planning to. I'm pretty sure his wife didn't either. And according to official stats it may not have done much.

Although would it lessen the symptoms as advertised? Maybe keep him out of the hospital? His wife recovered at home. On one hand having someone I know for many years end up in this dire situation could make a case for me getting the jab but then considering his wife – who being slightly asthmatic – seemed to fare much better.

This is a fine line because from the beginning the covid thing had all the ingredients of a manufactured crisis. By now it's clear who are the winners and who are the losers in this newest disaster. Brandon himself said he had covid but pretty sure he didn't end up like my friend. So what is the recipe for some people to get so messed up with covid while 99.7% come out of it as if it was a bad flu? The nursing home people got hit hard. Mike is early 50s and got hit hard. His wife is 59 and came out not so bad.

According to what we have seen out of highly vaccinated countries like Israel, the vax actually makes you MORE susceptible to infection and hospitalization when compared to natural immunity. So, I see no advantage whatsoever in taking the mRNA vax. None. The bottom line is that if you are part of that 0.26% of those that are most susceptible then there is not much you can do except perhaps what Joe Rogan did by taking a cocktail of medications for treatment. I took pure elderberry syrup (an anti-viral) I made myself and that seemed to take the edge off the virus. I was sick for about a week. In the end, if it's your time then it's your time – We can't let the fear of potential death drive us into the hands of big pharma and globalist dictators.

KeithSeptember 2, 2021 At 11:49 Am*

Perhaps the vaccine is the eugenicists' genocidal effort and the disease itself the mild justification to administer it. 15% immune system loss (jab 1), cumulative 35% (jab 2), with the potential lethality of subsequent "boosters" unknown.

The four horsemen may be deliberately precipitated by mankind. ...disease, famine, war, ....death

In light of the foreknowledge seemingly demonstrated by Edward Deagle <https://thelethaltext.me/2021/04/30/deagle-depop/> ...it may be exactly what is being carried out and his analysis was more like insider knowledge.

What could take the U.S.A. down to 100 million by 2024? Many have hypothesized about binary systems for biological warfare but the perfect one would be mild precursor that leaves you vulnerable to ANYTHING that challenges your immune system thereafter....meaning: no one disease to identify. A middle aged man may die of a seasonal flu, a child of the chicken pox and so on...

"They" are just too damn eager to get this into everyone. ...all the more reason to say "no"...

"It doesn't stop there; in fact, we have no idea where this stops once the Pandora's box is opened." I've always felt Pandora's box was opened during the Patriot Act when the government created the TSA. And quite possibly we are dealing with this Covid vaccine push for mandates because no one cared to stop the TSA. All it would have taken was a silent protest by not participating in air travel. The airlines would almost instantly feel the heat and would have pressured the Gov't to back off with the TSA. Since the TSA was created, I have not used air travel. Now it's too late and it will probably get violent as we are seeing riots and civil unrest take shape around the world.

Reply

Brandon SmithSeptember 2, 2021 At 4:23 Pm*

I think the TSA was a soft test compared to what is happening now. At least you can opt out of the body scans. In the case of the covid passports they want to make opting out impossible. Real tyranny means the erasure of independent choice. The fighting starts when people realize their choices have been taken from them and the only option left is rebellion. They want you to believe the only choice is slavery; what they don't want you to realize is that war against tyrants is ALWAYS an option.

ReplyRodsterSeptember 2, 2021 At 5:55 Pm*

The "Social Contract" rhetoric is just a narrative to force you to comply with their agenda. They don't care about the truth. They are Darwinian moral relativists- the ends justify the means kind of folks.

To understand the full agenda, you must understand the purposes of each piece of the agenda. The main purpose of the Covid-19 "virus" is the jab. The main purpose of the jab is the vaccine passport. The main purpose of the vaccine passport is a biometric ID tied into blockchain. The main purpose of the biometric, blockchain ID is a Chinese style credit score system. The purpose of the Chinese style credit score system is a global, totalitarian control system for when Central Bank Digital Currencies (CBDC) are introduced. As Aaron Russo revealed during his interview with Alex Jones in the early 2000s, they want to be able to turn off your money and ability to live if you say things they do not like. Kind of like how Chase Bank canceled Gen. Mike Flynn's Credit Cards for being a "reputational risk" to the company.

Here are a few links:

John Titus of BestEvidence on Bitchute has an outstanding video on how CBDCs will allow the Central Bankers to take over retail banking and hence everything you do:

The ultimate plan is to enslave humanity and then hybridize it into a hive minded worker bee connected to an AI system run through their 5G internet of things control grid (with a whole lot less worker bees on the planet). As Satan Klaus said about the year 2030, "You will own nothing. And you'll be happy".

First and foremost we MUST NOT comply with their agendas. They plan to make life impossible for anyone to live outside their system. So, our choice is to either stop their agenda (take over the Republican party- How is that going ???) or create our own system within their system which allows us to live and thrive. This alternative system will encompass food, economics, energy, security and healthcare. We need to think and act like the Amish.

There is hope as people are beginning to make and take a stand for their principles. They value liberty and freedom over tyranny. This is now happening in Oregon where their crazed Governor is imposing vaccine mandates of Emergency personnel. Many have said they would rather be fired.

<https://www.globalresearch.ca/oregon-vaccine-mandate-could-lead-mass-exodus-firefighters-paramedics-across-state/5754606>

“Chief Joshua Williams, who moved to the Aurora Fire District in May 2018 after a 12-year career in Depoe Bay, made his position clear in a two-page letter posted to the Aurora Fire District’s social media Friday.

“This mandate is un-American, as our state government has been weaponized to the point where people are afraid to take a stand,” Williams said. “I will no longer sit silently on the sideline and watch this happen. I love my job, I love the fire service, and more importantly, I love the people that I work with and serve.”

“I will not abide by the governor’s mandate.

Additionally, I will not enforce this mandate on any member of this fire district. In the old America, we used to have choices. Frankly, I do not recognize the country that I live in right now.”

Williams also noted that 25% or more of the firefighters in his district would also quit to avoid a vaccine mandate. He said this would devastate the ability of the Aurora Fire Department to respond to emergencies.”

The coming weeks/months are going to be VERY interesting. Military, cops, fireman, healthcare workers, etc. are facing deadlines for "vaccine" mandates. The timing is very interesting, too. The height of a biblical fire season in the west. Will there be a shortage of emergency personnel resulting in a mega-catastrophe? Maybe even a catastrophic earthquake added to the mix? All blamed on the "anti-vaxxers".

What belongs to Caesar? "Show me a Denarius. Whose image and inscription does it have?" A Denarius carried Caesar's image and inscription. From this, Jesus deduced that it belonged to Caesar. The Greek word for image is "eikon", familiar in English as "icon", an image of something. The word inscription means an engraving, a three dimensional image. Look in the mirror. Whose image and inscription do you see? "God created man in His own image, in the image of God He created him." People are made in the image of God. Who owns you? "Do you not know that... you are not your own? For you have been bought with a price..." What must be rendered to God then is (at least) our body. "Present your bodies a living and holy sacrifice... which is your spiritual service of worship." The final conflict between God's claims and government's claims will always come down to worship and in the end ownership of your body. Burn a little incense to Caesar, take an oath of loyalty to him, and you will be allowed to live.

Conflict with government will increase as it attempts to lay claim to your body and this is where taxation and worship collide. (You may be surprised to find that the income tax as currently practiced is based squarely upon the assertion that the United States government owns your physical body.) Because our body is owned by God, we are not allowed to give it away. "You were bought with a price; do not become slaves of men." Should you allow a government to put a mark on the forehead or the right hand of God's body? If you don't you might not be able to buy or sell. A government may capture you and forcefully put a mark on you. There is very little you can do about that. But willingly allowing a mark to be placed on you is another matter. It is of course no accident that health care is enforced by the Internal Revenue Service through the Affordable Care Act since the IRS claims to own our body. The next step will likely be forced vaccinations, micro-chipping, and other forms of forced medical treatment or marking. It has to go that way because the final battle for worship will be over the ownership of your body.

Absolutely nothing should be done to your body without the approval of God. I like the answer given to King Nebuchadnezzar by Daniel's friends: "We do not need to give you an answer concerning this matter." We owe them nothing of our body nor do we owe them any explanation.

Note: I wrote this years ago, seeing that the forced medical treatments were inevitable.

Great article as usual. Do you believe that asymptomatic spread is a real thing Brandon? I don't.

I think if the CDC makes the claim of Asymptomatic spread then it can be used against them. I also do think that many people get covid and never know they have it, but that does not necessarily mean they can spread it to others as the CDC suggests.

"When I argue that a socialist community should be voluntary, they inevitably argue that people will not commit to such a system voluntarily so they must be forced to do what is best for the "greater good". And their-in lies the rub. If Socialism is so great, why then does it have to be forced? What passes for higher education in state run universities today is little more than "mental masturbation" voluntary, they inevitably argue that people will not commit to such a system voluntarily so they must be forced to do what is best for the "greater good". Sure, because those who refuse to submit aren't being very social. We are the Vaxxed. You will be assimilated ... for your own good ... resistance is futile.

Man, this article is amazing. "In terms of government, the covid cult will claim that there are Supreme Court precedents for legal enforcement of vaccinations. Honestly, I don't care, and neither do millions of other Americans. A bunch of high priests in black robes do not get to dictate my independent health decisions; I make those decisions and there's nothing that they can do about it." How can it be said any better than this? Also, thanks for speaking out against abortions. "But, when we talk about an abortion, we are talking about a personal medical decision that leads to the direct and observable death of another innocent human being with his/her own rights." Indeed. Amen. Oh, and I still will not comply. Sorry tyrants!

I smell another setup. When "justice" Kennedy (a "liberal") was allowed to step down during a "conservative" presidency (a major political no-no), knowing full well he would be replaced by a "conservative", I told people to expect Roe v Wade to be overturned and it would mark the end of "my body, my choice". "Conservatives) will be ecstatic, but they will be shooting themselves in the foot because this will open the door to forced "vaccinations". It's brilliant, given that most "anti-vaxxers" are "conservatives".

You can see the Machiavellian plot taking form with the new Texas "anti-abortion bill, and Biden firing up the "violation of women's rights" issue. The fires of Civil War are being ignited one at a time.

If that is so, let the civil war begin. God is real and if we cower away from protecting the unborn to protect ourselves, their blood is also on our hands.

ReplyBrandon SmithSeptember 5, 2021 At 6:21 Pm*

It's not really that brilliant because the two things are completely different, as I noted in the article. Abortion is a direct and provable killing of a child. Being unvaxxed is proof of nothing. Civil war is inevitable; we might as well protect as many unborn children as we can in the process.

Such a great and timely article! I really appreciate your common sense. Something the world needs a lot more of for sure!

Indeed, the abortion issue is a great one to bring up to the Covid cult. One can only hope it will make some of them stop and think, I know right?

Personally I have lost a couple of friends to the Covid protocol the hospitals use on just about any respiratory condition-and they call it "Covid." The protocols are killing people and yet the medical establishment just keeps on using them. Isn't that the definition of insanity? A friend of mine waited too long to get help for a cold and it turned into pneumonia. (Remember that stuff?) She had no choice but to go to an ER. Of course they tested her and of course it came back positive for Covid. Her and I were in touch all along (she lives in another state) and the doc suggested Remdesivir. I gave her a few examples of what it's known to cause and she refused it. She already has impaired kidney and thyroid functions. They treated her with a basic pneumonia protocol and about 10 days later she was able to go home. So her story has a happy ending but I understand not all do. I lost a good friend last Nov to the standard Covid protocol-the hospital killed him.

This is not a time to depend on medical doctors and hospitals to save you. That is a real crap shoot! People need to get some basic care skills and use them!

Brandon, elderberry syrup is excellent for any respiratory issue. Making your own is fantastic!

Olive leaf, oregano oil, high dose vitamin C, quercetin, optimal vitamin D levels, nebulized colloidal silver/hydrogen peroxide and so many more. God gave us tons of herbs to help and people have written books on using them. Homeopathy offers a lot of help as well. There is much you can do to help yourself.

I agree that the would be controllers are scared. I know a lot of like-minded people who will never get that clot shot! So many will simply take care of their families and themselves. I will make my choices about my personal health. No damn politician or gov't is gonna make them for me. And what I choose is NONE of their business!

These elitists have no idea what to do with the independent American spirit hence the forced Socialism.

Well-I will not comply either!
Enough said!

Thank you all for your insight, your strength, and your commitment. May you stand firm in the truth that will keep you "free". Agency is liberty and I will fight for my freedom to choose. This site always gives me hope because so many of you recognize reality and are not being deceived. Brandon is blessed to have clarity and is brave enough to voice his convictions. And the rest of us are blessed to come here for mutual support. I am going to put a check in the mail today to express my appreciation to him for all he does to provide this platform . Alt-Market is one of the few sites I trust completely.
